Break the ice this season with a wintery selection of fashion and home design accents that lean toward the chillier side. Imaginative photographer Gray Malin takes a break from capturing some of the world's hottest beaches to focus on the snowy slopes for his collaboration with bespoke wallpaper company Black Crow Studios; designer Jeffrey Alan Marks astounds with a new icy palette for Kravet; and James Magni and Lalique appear to have taken great care in carving the perfect surfaces for their specially treated glass objects. From rich hues of indigo to a mix of frostier tones, it's time to embrace a cold front.
